MISCELLANEOUS

THE CULTURE DAY

The Culture Day, held on Friday, 5th April, 2019 was an initiative by the Student Council ZCRS, Clifton Chapter, celebrated with traditional enthusiasm to highlight the decades-old rich culture of Pakistan. Its purpose was to bring forward interest and knowledge amongst students about different cultures of the country, and their ideas, customs, and the social behaviour of the people belonging to it. It is perhaps, the only event that commemorates peace.

The theme called for attires according to the culture the students belonged to or were inspired by. The day started with a Quranic Verse, and students proceeded with various acts, cultural songs, and danced to traditional tunes. The examination hall of the Clifton campus was adorned with all kinds of objects, such as Sindhi Ajrak, kites, the national flag, etc. all representing Pakistan, and was hardly recognizable.

To revel in the festivities, the students also bought a customized cake on which different specialities of diverse cultures were printed. They sang the Pakistani National Anthem along with Ziauddin's Anthem with unparalleled passion. The show ended with the distribution of delicately packed chocolate baskets to the best dressed, male and female. It was indubitably the most informative and enlightening experience.

Umar Shareef, Shakeel Siddiqui, Sikandar Saleem etc. We're at the show Comedy Night at Abul Hasan Jaffery auditorium, Ziauddin University. The dim lit venue is packed with over 200 people- it's primarily young folk in attendance. At precisely 7.30 P.M., the show commences. The opening act by Hamza Syed- better known as the 'The Brown Rant Guy'- a MBBS student at Ziauddin University, sets the bar high for the following acts with his routine that is witty, compact and self-deprecating, and a joy in itself. We don't need the hand-holding of being shown what he is talking about, as he targets the institute with took the bold initiative of organizing a comedy night considering stand up is a genre that remained untapped in our society since the era of a blatant but hilarious twist. Kinza Mujeeb, who was added to the line up at the very last moment, breaks the stereotype of comedy scene in Pakistan being a man's game. With her sharp eye, terrific timing and a relatable demeanour, this comedian does not leave anything out, as she enraptures the audience with her hysterical expressions and impressions. Kinza is not just about the content – she is also about the delivery. Ultimately, it's time for the highly anticipated routine of tonight performed by Akbar Chaudry. Akbar is the artistic director of LolWaaley, an improvisational comedy troupe from Firefly Theatre that started out in 2012 with their tagline, 'you bring the bone, we bring the tickle!'. He has graduated with a master's degree in aerospace engineering, and now continues to satisfy the crowds hunger for laughs. Akbar's performance has a liberating and conversational feel to it. His humour appears calculatedly puerile where silly punchlines are added on top of smart observations and insights. Deliberating on the class differences in Karachi, he embraces the irony of our times, leaving the audience in stitches. To summarize, the show is a riot. And a recurrence of such event is a safe bet.

WELFARE AID BLOOD DRIVE

Welfare AID held its annual Blood Drive in collaboration with Husaini Blood Bank, on Tuesday, 26th March at the Clifton Campus. The event was, as usual, a rousing success. 72 pints of blood were collected, enough to save up to 216 lives. Majority of the blood went into our account, with the rest being sent to the Husaini Centre to treat children suffering from thalassemia.

The blood drive saw the Boys Common Room transformed, from 9:00 am to 3:00 pm, into a well-organized collection center, with stations for registration, screening, and blood collection. The donors, after filling out the registration forms, had their blood pressure and hemoglobin levels checked before proceeding to donate blood. They were then given cookies, generously provided by Espresso, and donor cards.

The entire process was aided by our Welfare AID members who streamlined the registration process, guided donors, set up a lemonade stand, and documented the event for social media.

The rewarding nature of the event, wherein a single pint of blood can save 3 lives, encouraged donors, and strengthened our resolve to continue such endeavors in the coming years.

BEACH PARTY

After a few uneventful months, the Student Council ZCRS decided to organize a Beach Party to brighten up their peers' university life with an event that would leave them chattering for weeks to come.

Thus, started the routinely meetings and the extensive marketing around campus.

This event was distinctive for two reasons; it was the first event that the Student Council processed without substantial supervision, giving the members a sense of responsibility and accountability. Secondly, it was also the first democratic event in the history of ZCRS, which further strengthened the ties of the student body with the council.

The Beach Party was held on Saturday, 6th

April, 2019 at Turtle Beach, Karachi. A total number of 120 students marked their presence that day along with Mr. Shabbar Virani, Coordinator Student Affairs, Ziauddin University.

A temperature of 39o C; a gentle, salty breeze; and splashing of the waves against the shore, were enough to lure students out of their shells, and under the sun. While some danced to beach-themed music, others occupied themselves with cricket and throwball, and a large proportion of students refused to leave the gritty sand and the cold, refreshing water.

At precisely 2. P.M., lunch was served. Starving students crept out and towards the luncheon area, recreating the scenes from The Walking Dead, as they gorged down the traditional dishes, Biryani, Tikka Paratha, and Halwa Puri, and a vegan dish, mixed veggies. Perhaps the highlight of the occasion was the Gulab Jaman, which stole the show effortlessly.

After playing with colours, and intense photo sessions the students were ready to leave for home.

If anything, this event proved to be successful, due to the vigilant Council, and the incredibly supportive peers that attended it. The fact that the Department of Student Affairs gave the Council room to exercise their concocted plans, did not go unnoticed, and for that we are truly thankful.

EVENTS

STUDENT COUNCIL OATH TAKING CEREMONY ZCRS

A groundbreaking ceremony took place for the first time in the history of ZCRS, where the Student Council (2018-19) of the department pledged to execute their duties with candor and commitment, to follow the fundamental values of the University, and to abide by all rules and regulations.

Mr. Shabbar Virani, the coordinator Student Affairs and host of the evening, commenced the ceremony with a beautiful quotation of Hazrat Ali (a.s), before announcing the candidates into the auditorium. The Principal, Mrs. Sumaira Farooqi, then delivered an impromptu speech, praising the nominees and stressing on maintaining discipline and sincerity. She also emphasized on the need for the students to be responsible citizens and assume their leadership role to make a revolutionary change and upholding a resilient bond between the two chapters, namely North and Clifton.

The Principal, herself, administered the Presidents' oath, after which they addressed their peers with uplifting words, causing hearts to soar across the auditorium. Then rest of the council members' oath-taking ensued.

Sir Usman Khan, senior professor, and patron, too lauded the students while also commending the ZCRS leadership for providing the students with the right extracurricular atmosphere and direction.

Even though the event was meant for the student council to get recognized for their collaborative efforts, the spotlight rightfully belonged to Dr. Almas Amin, the Director of Student Affairs. Without whom, none of this would have been possible. With her endearingly modest speech, the Oath-Taking bit of the ceremony came to an end.

Towards the end of the evening, the Prize Distribution ceremony initiated, igniting the spirited rivalry among the two branches. The victors and the runners-up were awarded shields and trophies, while the remainder of the participants were promised certificates.

The day ended with complimentary refreshments, a photo session, and mutual feeling of contentment.

This spirited event would not have been possible without the sponsors, KAAF Engineering, National Engineering Company, Z-Corp Engineering, and Aquafier. The presence of sports coach Muhammad Khan & Sports Manager Muhammad Zubair from Department of Student Affairs was highly appreciated. The executive committee of student council and volunteers, especially Khalid and Zaid, who captured the unforgettable moments have been hard to overlook. The semi-finals began with an exhilarating match between Spartans and Chi Magnets. Both teams faced an intense pressure to win, leaving Spartans to face a crushing defeat. In the next invigorating fixture, Atomic Cloud faced off Dream Crushers, in which Atomic Cloud managed to remain undefeated.

ALOHA NOVATO

It was arranged at Janus Banquet, Gulberg Town, Karachi, owing to the unquestionable efforts of ZUFEST STUDENT COUNCIL and Joint Head of the evening council, Syed Wirad.

The event was well attended by the students and faculty of ZUFEST.

A sentimental speech from Areeba Afzal left the graduating batch in tears, as she cherished her time at the university, expressed her undying gratitude to the professors, and made promises to set an example for her juniors. Next, Alishan and Huzaifa Ashraf took the stage and conferred titles to the students of batch 6, sneaking in their little quips and anecdotes. MOVIE
NIGHT

The last Saturday of January marked a momentous occasion for the students of Ziauddin University and a wonderful way to conclude the first month of the New Year. Two of the university's largest student run societies, Welfare AID and Ziauddin Literary and Cultural Society (ZLCS), joined forces to put up a Bonfire Movie night. To say it was a success, is an understatement!

Over 200 students from different departments attended. The atmosphere was electric and the excitement contagious. The night opened with the screening of Don't Breathe: a thriller film that kept the audience on edge and in anticipation for the horrors that were about to unfold. Delicious hot chocolate, popcorn and vibrant mural bookmarks were sold at the charity stall run by Welfare AID and all the proceeds went towards the treatment of under privileged patients at Ziauddin Hospital, Keemari.

There was a live BBQ which included juicy botis and kebabs with crispy parathas. The students gleefully piled their plates with food as the warm flames of the bonfire erupted to life. It was the coziest of meals under a canopy of fairy lights. The event concluded with an open mic as everyone huddled around the warmth of the flames in Karachi's winter. To conclude, everyone came together to release sky lanterns and watch them drift into the abyss.

The event was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone attending and also served as a great opportunity for students from different schools and departments in Ziauddin to come together and mingle.

The students who were interested in the hunt but couldn't register on time were given a chance to volunteer instead. The hunt lasted for almost 2 hours. Most of the work of clues and tasks was done by Eeman Mir and Sehar Sajid. The clues were situated in the most random places all over the University building.

For the first time we had two teams reaching the end point at the same time. It was very confusing who to give the prize to. Hence to make sure a fair decision was made, two more clues were given to the team and the team that reached the end point first was awarded the prize that included a gift basket, free beach tickets and a Broadway pizza. The runner up team was given free ZLCS shirts.
